PINE-COOPER NUPTIALS IS A BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENT

Large Assemblage at Wedding of Popular Honolulu Girl and Revenue Service Officer.

THE Pine Cooper nuptials that took place Saturday evening was a "handsomely appointed affair and was marked by the pomp that is due every "service wedding." Over five hundred guests witnessed the ceremony at the church. The large assemblage of guests was mainly composed of civilians, although there were many army and navy folk present. The officers in their full dress uniforms added to the spectacular effect. The wedding took place in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Bishop Henry Bond Restarick performing the impressive Episcopal marriage service. The church was handsomely decorated in scarlet polka-dots, potted palms and maidenhair fern. The polka-dots were chosen for decorative purposes—being symbolic of the approaching Christmas tide. Promptly at half after eight o'clock, the bridal party entered the church, and proceeded down the broad aisle to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march. The bridal procession was led by two tiny flower girls, Miss Sibyl Hocking and Miss Toy McCandless. The little flower girls are considered amongst the prettiest girls in town. Little Miss McCandless is a brunet with large brown eyes and chestnut colored curly hair—her coloring is so wonderful that she was recently painted by one of the foremost artists of the city. Miss Sibyl Hocking is a perfect blonde, with blue eyes and golden curly hair. The contrast was extremely effective. They looked very dainty, clad in French dresses of white silk net, embroidered in gold, over slips of yellow chiffon and satin. Gold colored shoes and hose were worn and tiny wreaths of gold leaves were worn in their dresses. The baskets that they carried were also of gold filled with white daisies. The usher Lieutenant Vaughan, Lieutenant Price, U. S. A., Ensign Horner, Ensign Waddington and Ensign Vaughan, U. S. N., acted as escorts to the bridesmaids, proceeding two by two down the aisle. The bridesmaids, the Misses Alice Cooper, Bertha Kopke, Helen North, Florence Hoffman and after the ceremony, the bridal party and a few intimate friends motored to Judge and Mrs. Henry Cooper's home in Manoa Valley, where an informal reception was held. The details of decoration at this beautiful home were an elaborate scale of artistic beauty, being carried out with orchids, roses, palms and tropical vines. Lieutenant and Mrs. James Pine and Judge and Mrs. Cooper, received in the east drawing room, under a canopy effect of smilax and white marguerites. After the young couple had received the best wishes and congratulations of their friends, the party adjourned to the large court where the wedding supper was served. This court is a veritable conservatory on a large scale, being filled with rare plants and palms, growing orchids and innumerable hanging baskets of maiden hair fern. At the bridges table were seated Bishop and Mrs. Henry Bond Restarick, Judge and Mrs. Henry Cooper, Miss Irene Cooper, Lieutenant Pine and the bride and groom. This table was exquisitely decorated in white orchids and Australian maiden hair. The other guests were seated at tables adorned with Shasta daisies and smilax. The place cards for the fair sex were stunning looking brides, dressed in satins and chiffons, with the conventional wedding veil. The guest cards for the men were miniature white satin slippers, ornamented with natural orange blossoms. Boxes of wedding cake, tied with white satin ribbon were found at each place. During the elaborate wedding supper, Kauai's quintet club furnished the music and played afterwards for the dancing. An innovation was made, when the bride threw her bridal bouquet, after the first dance. This bouquet was arranged in three parts, so instead of one guess catching the trophy, there were three. One of the sashes contained a ring that was caught by Miss Lydia McStockier, Mrs. Anna Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Mr. and Mrs. Hocking's Diner. One of the most beautiful entertainments given during the past week was the dinner given Christmas Eve by Mr. and Mrs. Hocking at their home on Kewalo street. The decorations were not only beautiful, but unique. The centerpiece was a miniature Santa Claus, wheeling a wheelbarrow filled with Christmas berries over an embankment of snow. Handsome Christmas cards designated the places of the guests. After dinner the host and hostess and their guests motored to the U. S. S. Colorado to witness the unveiling of the Christmas tree. Among those who partook of Mr. and Mrs. Hocking's hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wall, Miss Pinkham, Miss Florence Hoffmann, Miss Genevieve and Sibyl Hocking, Lieutenant Withers, Ensign Todd and Ensign Loquist, U. S. N.
